

Oulton Primary School

Relationships and Sex Education Policy

Living and Growing

June 2022

Introduction

'To embrace the challenges of creating a happy and successful adult life, pupils need knowledge that will enable them to make informed decisions about their wellbeing, health and relationships and to build their self-efficacy.' DfE guidance document (ref DfE 0116/2000)

At Oulton Primary School we believe high-quality, age-appropriate Relationship and Sex Education (RSE) is key for keeping children healthy and safe. We work to deliver a PSHE curriculum which will enable all pupils to develop and maintain the knowledge, skills and attributes they need to live healthy, happy lives, now and in the future. A key element of this, which we are now required to teach, is about Relationships Education and Health Education as laid out in the statutory guidance from the Department for Education (DfE).

Relationship and Sex education at Oulton Primary is taught as part of the Personal, Social, Health and Economic education (PSHE) and Science curriculums. We aim to support children in developing the skills and self-confidence needed to manage healthy relationships and to prepare them for physical and emotional changes into adulthood.

As a primary school, we are not required to provide sex education apart from the elements included in the primary science curriculum. However, as part of their PSHE education, pupils in Years 6 will receive stand-alone sex education lessons. Whilst some topics will be used to inform children about sexual issues, we do this with regard to matters of morality and individual responsibility. We do not use RSE as a means of promoting any form of sexual orientation or sexual activity.

Definition

Relationships and Sex education is learning about the emotional, social and physical aspects of growing up, relationships, sex, human sexuality and sexual health. Some aspects are taught in science, and others are taught as part of personal social, health and economic education (PSHE)

A comprehensive programme of RSE provide accurate information about the body, reproduction, sex and sexual health. It also gives children and young people essential skills for building positive, enjoyable, respectful and non-exploitative relationships and staying safe both on and offline.

- Sex and relationships education (SRE) for the 21st century (2014)

Overall school aims for RSE

Through the provision outlined in this policy, the school's overall aims of RSE are to teach and develop the following three main elements:

Attitudes and values:

- Learn the importance of values and individual conscience and moral considerations.

- Learn the value of family life, marriage, and stable and loving relationships for the nurture of children.
- Learn the value of respect, love and care.
- Explore, consider and understand moral dilemmas.
- Develop critical thinking as part of decision-making.

Personal and social skills:

- Learn to manage emotions and relationships confidently and sensitively.
- Develop self-respect and empathy for others.
- Learn to make choices based on an understanding of difference and with an absence of prejudice.
- Manage conflict.
- Learn how to recognise and avoid exploitation and abuse.

Knowledge and understanding:

- Learn and understand physical development at appropriate stages.
- Understand human reproduction, sexual health, emotions and relationships.

Sex and Relationships Education Guidance DfE

The aim of RSE is NOT to:

- Encourage pupils to become sexually active at a young age.
- Promote a particular sexual orientation or gender identity.
- Sexualise children.

Development Process

From September 2020 the law requires primary schools to consult on their Relationships Education policy. Consultation must be carried out when the policy is formed and whenever it is updated. Parent/carers, staff and Governors were consulted through sharing the policy, the RSE curriculum overview, accompanying documentation and frequently asked questions via the school website and electronically. Stakeholders were invited to complete a consultation form and a summary of responses and our actions were made public. Pupils were consulted through in class surveys.

It will be reviewed briefly every year and in full every 3 years.

We are committed to the ongoing development of RSE in our school. We will use the following indicators to monitor and evaluate progress:

- The content of the RSE curriculum is flexible and responsive to the pupils differing needs e.g. through the use of pupil perception data such as My Health My School Survey Data
- Children are receiving a Relationship Education curriculum in line with the DfE national statutory guidance and local guidance
- Children demonstrate good understanding of the RSE curriculum for their age
- Children's attitudes demonstrate the positive characteristics for building healthy relationships.

The Curriculum

"Every state-funded school must offer a curriculum which is balanced and broadly based and which:

- promotes the spiritual, moral, cultural, mental and physical development of pupils at the school and of society, and*
- prepares pupils at the school for the opportunities, responsibilities and experiences of later life."*

- Use of external agencies/services
- School ethos
- Small group work
- Cross curricular links e.g. Science and Computing

Relationship and Sex Education through PSHE

Through PSHE, we aim to support and prepare pupils to achieve their academic potential and leave school equipped with skills they will need to manage opportunities, responsibilities and experiences in the present and later life. Relationship and Health Education is a key part of this. We want to maximise the outcomes for every child, with a curriculum accessible to all, so that pupils know more, remember more and understand more through a curriculum designed to revisit and build upon learning from previous years teaching. In Early Years, RSE is taught cross-curricular as laid out in Development Matters (2012) In Key Stages 1 and 2, we follow the Leeds PSHE Scheme of Work to support our curriculum development.

Topics to be covered

RSE needs to start early so that children learn about different kinds of relationships like families and friendships and so they can recognise if other people make them feel uncomfortable or unsafe. Lots of children start puberty before they leave primary school so it is important that all pupils know what to expect before it happens. It is good to have some RSE in every year of primary school as it helps pupils to learn progressively as they mature and revisit the subject on a regular basis, to reinforce learning and provide opportunities to ask further questions.

Early Years Foundation Stage

Children learn about relationships with a focus on friendships, growing and changing, caring for others and the building of self-esteem. Children will learn how families are all different and will be encouraged to think about what makes theirs special.

Role of the school staff

All staff in school are expected to support children within our care to develop their skills in managing developing healthy, safe relationships.

All staff will:

- ensure they are up to date with the school policy and requirements regarding RSE.
- Ensure they are using the correct vocabulary for the age group/groups they are working with
- Report back to the RSE co-ordinator on any areas of the schools RSE provision they feel is not adequately covered/resourced.
- Tailor lessons to suit all pupils in their class
- Ask for support/further training from the school SEND or RSE lead should they need it

The UKS2 Phase leader will consult with all staff involved in the teaching of Year 5/6 RSE. Materials and language to be used will be shared alongside all planning. At this point, the logistics of other staff supporting when the classes are split, will be organised.

Parents and carers

We recognise that the primary role in children's sex education lies with parents and carers. We aim to build a positive and supportive relationship with parents and carers through mutual understanding and co-operation.

At the beginning of each year, parents/carers will be informed as to when RSE will be taught in that school year. Where appropriate, a further letter will be sent out prior to RSE lessons with further details on what will be taught. Parents and carers will be invited into school to view the materials used and to give them the opportunity to discuss any questions or queries they have with teachers.

SEN and Differentiation and Language

All pupils regardless of age, ability, race, religion, gender or those new to English are entitled to quality RSE that helps them build the confidence and skills to stay healthy and safe. Individual needs are considered when planning the delivery of RSE and lessons are carefully differentiated to ensure that all our pupils can achieve. The use of additional support is carefully planned to assist teachers with this.

Confidentiality and safeguarding

Teaching staff will follow the RSE program with a sensitive manner and in confidence. All staff need to be aware that effective RSE though-out school, brings about understanding of what is and is not acceptable in a relationship, thus protecting children. It may also lead to disclosure of a child protection issue. Staff will inform a designated Child Protection Officer and follow procedures outlined in our Child Protection and Safeguarding policy. Children will be made aware that anything that concerns the teacher will always be referred to an appropriate member of staff (i.e. the school's designated Child Protection Officers).

Some children's life experiences may mean that they find the subject content of some RSE lessons personally challenging. Phase leaders should liaise with a Child Protection Office so the appropriate support can be put in place for those individual children who require additional pastoral support.

Answering difficult questions

We acknowledge that potentially sensitive or controversial issues will arise as pupils naturally share information and ask questions. Staff will establish clear ground rules about what is and is not appropriate to ask in a whole class setting. Staff may also choose to use 'ask it baskets' during lessons with particularly sensitive matters. This method allows pupils to submit written question and gives staff the opportunity to decide how and when best to answer.

If a child asks an explicit or difficult question, staff will use their professional judgement in deciding the best way to answer it. Staff do not the need to answer the question in the moment but should feedback within the week if possible, either through subsequent lessons, through individual work or discussion with the child. If a staff member is concerned they can refer to their phase leader, head teacher, PSHE coordinator or child protection officer as they see appropriate.

Procedures for withdrawal

Parents/carers cannot withdraw their child from statutory Relationships and Health Education lessons or statutory Sex Education content taught in the National Curriculum for science. However, they do have the right to withdraw their child from some, or all Sex Education lessons delivered as part of the non-statutory RSE, delivered as part of the PSHE curriculum.

Requests for withdrawal should be put in writing to the Head Teacher. The Head Teacher will discuss this further with parents/carers to reach an agreement.

Use of visitors

(for nurses, healthcare professionals, NSPCC)

When appropriate, visitors may be involved in the delivery of Sex and Relationship Education but will not be used as substitute to school provision.

Monitoring and evaluation

Monitoring is the responsibility of the PSHE co-ordinator. The effectiveness of the RSE program will be evaluated through assessment of children's learning and discussion with teaching staff.

This policy will be available to parents via the school website or through requesting a paper copy from the school office.
